POLICE COURT.

GEORGE W. JOHNSTON, Judge.

Tuesday, March 3, 1859.

SUSPECTED FELON.—Wm. McLean was in arrears a suspected felon. He was in the book store.

ester & Co. and after he left they missed Webster's Dictionary valued at $5. A witness testified that the accused left such a book at the home of Mr. Gill. A clerk of Jno. W. Clark testified the accused was in there and bought a book, which he laid aside and said he would call again for it. After he departed several fine books were missing. He called this morning and got the book he paid for the day previous. Subsequently he was arrested, but no books were found in his carpet bag. At this point the case was laid over to give him a chance to get witnesses, and also allow the prosecution time to prepare the case more completely.

THE ADVENTURES OF A POLYGAMIST.—A married Smith was arrested in New York on Sunday.

on charge of bigamy. It is alleged that two years ago he married Miss Letitia Rolston, in the city, and was subsequently twice arrested on serious charges, but through the entreaties of his wife was let off. Soon after his ill-treatment caused her to leave him, and engage herself as cook and servant of the way boarding house. The subsequent adventures of Smith the Tribune thus narrates:

During the past summer, by the help of a good bit of clothes and an unlimited stock of bread, while at Staten Island, made the acquaintance of Miss Mary M. Morange, the daughter of an extensive furniture dealer in the Bowery, and won her affections. To her father he represented that he was an officer in the New York custom house, and the her expectant to a fortune of $150,000 from his rich old father in Newark, New Jersey. It does not appear that Mr. Morange made very strenuous efforts to find out the truth of his situation.

Mr. Smith, to quiet any lingering suspicion, invited his intended to visit his parents. They went to Newark, and stopped before a splendid mansion occupied by a Mr. Smith, which he said was his father's house, and leaving Miss M. at the gate, he walked up to the front door to bring the news to his wealthy and somewhat choleric parent. Unfortunately the family was absent, so he said when he came back, and the young lady returned to New York without suspecting thing young, more especially as Smith turned his head aside and shutting his eyes exclaimed, "I am not worthy to be married to you," with a magnificent wave of his hand, as he retired from the spot: "All that I see is mine and shall be thine." The young folks were married at the Allen street M. E. Church, by the Rev. J. Roche, on the 27th of last month, and Smith took his bride to apartments at No. 10 Allen street. As this was within a few doors of the residence of his mother-in-law, (Rolston) his first wife very soon became apprised of what was going on.

on, and proceedings were instituted which culminated in Mr. Smith's arrest. When taken before Justice Steers and confronted with the pretty little tearful woman who claimed him as her own, he frankly acknowledged that he was the author of their mutual misery. Mr. Smith was thereupon confined to the tender mercies of the keeper of the Essex market prison, and for some years to come will have but very little chance of making any further advance in his career as a true lover.

HORRIBLE MURDER.—The New Orleans Picune, of Tuesday, has the following account of a horrible murder in Algiers, opposite that city:—
Mr. Ed. Grundy, conductor of the freight train on the Opelousas Railroad, was found murdered early this morning, under the most mysterious and horrible circumstances.
Mr. Grundy, who was a married man arrived at the depot with the train this morning at a quarter of eight.

She was told that her husband had come down with the train and had started for home at a quarter past three. She returned home, and, finding him there, called on a neighbor and a friend of his, and told him her anxiety, asking him to go and inquire for her husband.

Ed. Grundy lay dead in the road, with no less than fourteen stabs upon his person and two shot wounds. On the ground, near by, were found a double barreled pistol, both barrels discharged, the sheath of a common dirk and a loaded wadnail, split as by the violence of a blow. The scene bore the signs of a struggle.

The struggle must have been long, and the body of the victim presented a shocking sight with its numerous wounds, inflicted upon the head, neck, breast and shoulders. There is no clue yet to this awful mystery. The deceased is reported to have been a quiet and inoffensive man.

Why Lowe was Murdered.

Facts are fast circulating in the community which go to show that some of those who seemed to be the friends of Maxwell in the late tragedy were not so much his friends as they were the enemies of Lowe. They made use of the Maxwell difficulty as a means of wreaking their vengeance upon Lowe, whom they hated more than they loved Maxwell. Indeed, had it not been for some of these enemies of Lowe acting as the friends and advisers of Maxwell, we doubt not that the difficulty would have been adjusted without the shedding of blood.

Thomas Wilcox was the enemy of Lowe, because Lowe had induced Mary Brown to go before the Grand Jury and indict him for taking $200 out of Brown's pocket, under the following circumstances: Wilcox, Davidson, Oldham, and Brown were on a boat about one year ago, at the Harwell's wharf. A dispute arose between Brown and Oldham about taking more drinks. Brown drew off his coat and vest, and then threw them upon the floor as if to fight. Oldham then, giving the fight a playful turn, gathered up Brown and bore him to the wharf. While this was being done, Wilcox took from the vest pocket of Brown $200, without accounting for the same when Brown missed the money and asked him about it. A dispute arose between Brown and Oldham about taking more drinks. Brown drew off his coat and vest, and then threw them upon the floor as if to fight. Oldham then, giving the fight a playful turn, gathered up Brown and bore him to the wharf. While this was being done, Wilcox took from the vest pocket of Brown $200, without accounting for the same when Brown missed the money and asked him about it. A dispute arose between Brown and Oldham about taking more drinks. Brown drew off his coat and vest, and then threw them upon the floor as if to fight. Oldham then, giving the fight a playful turn, gathered up Brown and bore him to the wharf. While this was being done, Wilcox took from the vest pocket of Brown $200, without accounting for the same when Brown missed the money and asked him about it.

Other facts might be added to show that other parties, engaged in the assault upon Lowe the day before his murder, had old offenses to wipe out. Judge Mayhew, who came out with his rifle to stand by Maxwell, a dispute arose between Brown and Oldham about taking more drinks. Brown drew off his coat and vest, and then threw them upon the floor as if to fight. Oldham then, giving the fight a playful turn, gathered up Brown and bore him to the wharf. When Lowe, assailed by overpowering numbers, armed with guns, was forced to flee for his life, let it not be forgotten that while he acknowledged not being rich enough to stand before a mob, he offered to meet them with any one of his friends—nay, all of them, one upon equal terms.

Let it not be forgotten that when Lowe was fleeing from his pursuers, a gentleman by the name of A. M. Mayo, who was his personal enemy, stood before him and his assistants, and proclaimed that the life of Lowe should not be taken in such a dastardly way. A few days before this Mayo had been shot at by Lowe, and the misunderstanding between them was suspended, not settled. Such an act of nobleness on the part of Mayo is worthy of being recorded and remembered. He is a man, a true man, whose conduct is a bright spot on the dark page of the Harwell's tragedy.

And, while speaking of Mayo, it should be remembered that it was this brave and magnanimous gentleman who searched Lowe, in the presence of his assistants, to find out if he had on a coat of mail as charged. The lie given on this a case as excuse for their cowardly bullets not killing him, by this public examination, was a very bold and brazen lie, it is a great pity that such a case as this should be so easily carried out, and his life should have been sustained entirely the action of the party in this city.

Tom County.—The Democrats of Todd county have recommended Dr. John C. Whitlock, of Christian county, as their choice for the Senate in that district.

The Know Nothings of Todd county have recommended Maj. Ben Barry, of Christian, as their candidate for the Senate.

Col. W. H. Harrison, of Todd, will probably be the Democratic candidate for the Legislature in that county.—Raduch Herald.

Honorably Discharged.—John Brasher, who was arrested on the charge of passing counterfeit $100 bills on the bank of Louisville, was yesterday discharged by the Police Court. He received an excellent character, and explained his possession of the money in such a way as to relieve him of all suspicion.

A Word to Our Townsmen Friends.
We have a few words to say to our friends in the Western District. We know that they fully appreciate the importance of the cause for which we are struggling, but there seems to be an inefficiency of organization, and a misapplication of endeavor prevailing among them, which may render all our efforts nugatory, and give Kio Nothingism a new lease of power in our fair city. In the first four wards we anticipate a glorious triumph. In the other four, all that is required to attain one equally glorious triumph is organization and exertion equal to that of the First District. The material is there, and it is a crying shame that by the apathy and neglect of the Democratic party in that section all we have for years contended for, and which we have but to reach forth our hands to seize, should elude our grasp. We call upon every Democrat in the four lower wards to join earnestly in the work, and to make no mistake in this connection. Let us truly be united, as is stated in Let this be done, and it requires no prophet's ken to foretell that in the April election Louisville, redeemed and dethroned, will be pointed to with pride as a worthy section of Democratic Kentucky. Never have our leaders been so enthusiastic, never has the party been so determined, never, in fine, have the prospects of a great and glorious Democratic victory been so bright. The people are determined upon this change, and they will have it. Though for years past they have been hoodwinked and deceived, and have been induced to put trust in most exceeding knaves, yet the reaction has come at last, and as their instincts are always naturally towards honesty and truth, this deception cannot last forever. The Democratic party is powerful, and confidence in Louisville will be restored, and with confidence he will again know peace, increase and prosperity, till at last he will attain that proud position of pre-eminence to which nature and her geographical position entitle her.

Editor Louisville Courier: The Star Base Ball Club has reorganized, and hope to resume their games next Friday at 4 o'clock, at their grounds on Cedar Hill. The character of this club is so well known to all of our readers that it is useless for me to repeat it. The game, as your readers are also know, is a very interesting one, and not only being interesting, but also very useful to the youth of our land. Those who are occupied during the day at business, and kept very close should as soon as possible avail themselves of these clubs. Now that spring has opened in all its glory, we think it about time they were resuming their games, as we fear they have not exercised enough during the winter.

The Star Club, at their meeting on Saturday last, elected the following officers:
President—A. O. Booth.
Vice President—A. B. Hewitt.
Secretary—Wm. W. Duncan.
Treasurer—Chas. S. Grunell.
The members will please be promptly on the grounds on Friday, March 3, 1859.

The child thrown from the cars near Cleveland, Ohio, by its brutal mother, has since died. The woman was arrested at Dunkirk, and subsequently, for some unassigned cause, set at liberty.

Candidates.—Col. Oscar Turner, of Ballard county, has been named by the Convention for Congress in this district, at a public meeting at Blueville, on Monday last. He made but a brief speech, but did not know of his nomination. He would be presented during the canvass, but at the proper time, and as the issues came, he would present his views to the people of the district.

It is known to the people that Hon. C. Burnett is a candidate for re-election to Congress from this district, at a public meeting at Blueville, on Monday last. He made but a brief speech, but did not know of his nomination. He would be presented during the canvass, but at the proper time, and as the issues came, he would present his views to the people of the district.

At the same time and place Col. R. D. Gholson and Samuel H. Jenkins, Esqs., announced themselves as candidates for the State Senate in the district composed of the counties of Ballard, Graves, Hickman, and Fulton.

At the same time and place, Mr. D. H. Husbands of this city, announced himself as a candidate for the State Legislature, in the district composed of the counties of Ballard and McCracken.

John C. McCracken, of McCracken county, and several other gentlemen, are spoken of for the same position.

In the district composed of the counties of Trigg, Callaway, and Marshall, Mr. J. P. Irvin, Col. Dodd, and Chas. Humphreys, are spoken of for the Senate.—Raduch Herald.
